Title: VULGAR BETRAYAL

Synopsis: Set forth results of meeting with Department of Justice (DOJ) Tax Division Attorney concerning the captioned matter.

b6

Details: For the information of Chicago and National Security Divisions, on 3/26/98 a representative of the Asset Forfeiture Unit was present during a meeting between KPMG contractor [redacted] and [redacted] DOJ, Tax Division. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the possible application of the tax laws to the scheme in the captioned matter. [redacted] was informed in very general terms that an investigation was underway involving the suspected laundering of funds through charitable organizations to further terrorism activity. No names of individuals, charities, or other specific information was provided.

[redacted] stated that the alleged use of charities to launder money created many problems in proving violations of the tax laws. In such instances it was necessary to prove that the charity was in violation of its 501(c)(3) exemption by showing that the charity was in fact a conspiratorial front for other activity. Thus any tax charges would be derivative of a substantive criminal violation, in other words, until money laundering was proved there would be no tax violation. In [redacted] opinion the tax violations would in fact be harder to prove than the other crimes and would carry far less potential penalty. [redacted] further advised that investigations involving charities did have one benefit, in that the tax returns of charitable organizations are public records which can be obtained without a court order by contacting the IRS service center in Ogden, Utah. [redacted] expressed concern that [redacted] and [redacted] representatives not be permitted access to any tax returns obtained through the use of ex parte orders, since contract personnel are not authorized to use this information even if court orders are in place allowing them access to grand jury information.

The use of KPMG contract personnel requires that the DOJ Assets Forfeiture Management Staff (AFMS) must be provided with periodic updates as to the status of the investigation and the activities of the contract personnel. The AFU will assist the substantive desk and the field division with keeping the AFMS advised. To do so the AFU needs to receive periodic updates, in verbal or written form, as to the status of the case and any seizures or other statistical accomplishments which were impacted by the KPMG contract. This reporting may be coordinated by contacting SA [REDACTED] stated she was unaware that several [REDACTED] on her lead were [REDACTED] listed in the FBI investigation Vulgar Betrayal and that she would contact SSA [REDACTED] who is the supervisor of squad CT-1 to which the Vulgar Betrayal investigation and Global Chemical Corporation cases are both assigned. SA [REDACTED] stated she would inquire whether SSA [REDACTED] concurred with the interview of [REDACTED] listed in the Global Chemical Corporation lead sent to FBI Flint from FBI Chicago or whether he would advise to continue to hold these interviews in abeyance due to the Vulgar Betrayal investigation.
